

1920's Prezi Group Project

We will be spending three days working on a group project covering individuals from the 1920's who helped change and inspire a generation of Americans forever. These individuals left an impact on American society, so much so that almost a century later, we continue to learn about their accomplishments.

For the project, students will be broken up into groups of three and will be assigned one of twelve individuals from the 1920's to research. We will be spending three days in the library researching and putting together a Prezi presentation (Fancier version of Power point).

Friday, January 10th will be a research day. Groups are encouraged to use this day to research their individual. Students will have the weekend to continue their research, including the collection of various media.

On Monday, January 13th, the groups will present their research and before starting on their Prezi, they must get an OK from me, the teacher, before beginning. Tuesday, January 14th is the last day we will be spending in the library, and the Prezi presentation must be submitted no later than 9 pm Tuesday night.

To submit the project, simply have one group member title the presentation after your individual and post the link on the Online Turn In thread located in the classroom message board on the class website: Esperanzaushistory.weebly.com

THIS IS AN IMPORTANT PROJECT, especially since final grades are due within the next three weeks. DO NOT slack off on this assignment. This project has the potential to bump your grade significantly. This project will be worth 150 points.

What is needed?

Biographical information:

- When and where was your person born
- What was his family life like growing up?
- How did events of the era shape his life?
- What was it that he did that was notable?
- Why was what he did/accomplished important at the time? (In other words, why are they being studied today? What did he do for America that has him being studied nearly 100 years later?)
